Nicola Green

I have a long history with the HFESNZ holding various committee and editor roles, beginning with a conference attendance in 1999! My interest in HFE began when I was a physiotherapist in the USA treating work injuries (unsuccessfully without the context of the workplace). I completed an Advanced Certificate in Occupational Health in England before returning to NZ and establishing my HFE consultancy business. Since then, I have completed a BA in Business Psychology, an MPhil and in 2021 had my PhD (Management) conferred. I recently became a Certified NZ HFE Professional. I continue to work as a researcher and HFE consultant with my interest centred around healthy work and the impact of technology on work systems, particularly in telework and telehealth. I live in Diamond Harbour with my partner and two teenaged daughters and spend as much time as possible on the walking tracks near our home.
